OLD AGE AND DIVORCE

There is no age limit to divorce. Up in Oregon a woman at the age of 82 years is suing for a decree from her husband, who is a callow strapping of 71 summers. This seems to be another case of too much mother-in-law, as the wife asserts that her husband's love has been alienated and undermined through the work of his mother, who is now 94 years old and who never did like her, anyhow. They have been married some 10 years now and the wife said that when the husband took her money to buy an auto for his mother and wouldn't let his wife ride in it she knew that his love was dead. When she remonstrated the husband coldly informed her that she could leave the house. When the wife said that the home was her own and bought with her own money the husband replied that that might be so, but he had thoughtfully had the deed recorded in his own name. Now she has to appeal to the courts. It is rather rough when a bride of 82 has to compete with a 94-year-old mother-in-law for the affection of her husband.—Los Angeles Times.

Champ Shows His Fighting Blood

Champion Jess Willard is proving wrong the statement often heard, "That he doesn't like to fight." In his training seige at Toledo for defense of his title against Jack Dempsey on July 4, he is setting a merry clip and convincing critics that he is going to be a hard man to defeat. His second day in camp he started to knocking out sparring partners. These are first pictures from his camp where he is putting on the finishing touches.

HORSE MEAT IS NO NOVELTY

In answer to the question as to whether horse meat is entirely satisfactory for food purposes, Philip B. Hawk, in his book, "What We Eat and What Happens to It," (Harper and Brothers), answers: "Yes. The flesh of the horse is somewhat similar in composition to that of the cow and sheep. It has been used for years in certain continental countries, and under the stress of war the butcher shops of England openly offered it for sale. And now America is falling in line, and even the conservative Quakers of Pennsylvania have recently passed a law legalizing the sale not only of horse meat, but mule meat as well. Horse meat is very apt to be tough, because of the fact that the horse is generally used for eating purposes only when it is good for nothing else. When that time arrives the horse is pretty certain to be well along in years.

"There are many animals whose names are never mentioned in food discussions, the flesh of which would make 'good eating.' Among these may be mentioned the muskrat, the guinea pig, whale, seal and manatee (sea cow), while Doctor Wiley suggests that we eat our pet dogs and pussy cats. It is reported that a lion cub two months of age, fresh from an African jungle, recently was served at a private dinner in New York city."

"Astronomers tell us," said the man of statistics, "that an express train moving a hundred miles a second would consume several million years in reaching a certain star."

The other man sat silent, wrapped in thought.

"Did you hear me?" asked the man of statistics.

"Oh yes, I heard you," responded the other quickly. "I was just thinking what a predicament a chap would be in if he should miss the last train and have to walk."

The Doctor Away From Home When Most Needed

People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases, like pain in the stomach and bowels, colic and diarrhoea require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better medicine for these diseases. By having it in the house you escape much pain and suffering and all risk. Buy it now; it may save life.
